Cantine Vitevis’ Bardolino DOC – Cantina del Garda

scritto da Wine Meridian Editorial Staff | 28 Aprile 2023

This exquisite representation of the Bardolino area on the Garda lake perfectly encapsulates a region of incredible beauty. This wine is obtained from the native varieties of the province of Verona: Corvina, Rondinella and Molinara.

The historical Castelnuovo cellar, in the region south of Lake Garda, is where you can find Vitevis’ Bardolino, a wine produced in accordance with the cooperative’s clear certification and sustainability objectives.

Vitevis is comprised of three separate Venetian vineyards, demonstrating the deep and synergistic benefits of collaboration.

This well-crafted red has a large and rich scent and gleams in the glass, indicating that those who support this designation—which is sometimes overlooked by wine critics—are correct. We were surprised with a well-balanced sapidity and acidity that properly end the taste, hints of pepper and scarlet blooms, as well as fruit salad from the undergrowth. We obtained obvious proof of the validity of this Veronese appellation after tasting it chilly.

It pairs nicely with local cured meats, but also with roast rabbit to bring out its great balance.

This Bardolino DOC is part of Vitevis's 100% Carbon Neutral certified line, a project that represents a natural progression for the brand, which has always paid close attention to climate change and client needs. The CO2 emissions produced throughout the manufacturing process are neutralized by validated carbon credits.

Company Profile

Cantine Vitevis S.c.a. is an agricultural cooperative company with registered office in Montecchio Maggiore (VI), officially established on 1 July 2015 from the merger of three historical wineries in the Vicenza area: Cantina Colli Vicentini S.c.a. of Montecchio Maggiore (1955); Cantina di Gambellara S.c.a. of Gambellara (1947); Cantina Val Leogra S.c.a. of Malo (1961). In July 2019, Cantina di Castelnuovo del Garda S.c.a. di Castelnuovo del Garda (1958) also joined Vitevis through merger by incorporation. The merger stems from the desire to improve the respective points of excellence in the territory, enhancing the wines of the provinces of Vicenza and Verona in Italy and worldwide. Vitevis, from the Latin vite vis: the strength of the vine, of a territory and its people. Vitevis operates from the vineyards, to the cellar, to the logistics, to the commercial service activities, with the utmost attention to product quality and safety, focusing on the continuous training of personnel with respect to hygiene, safety, quality and sustainability.
