

Tedeschi: noblesse oblige

scritto da Redazione Wine Meridian | 14 Novembre 2017

It's time to harvest at Tedeschi's, historical winery in Valpolicella region.

Thanks to the family enologist Riccardo's dedication and passion, Tedeschi wines have received important national and international prizes, demonstrating diligence and professionalism of the owners: the brother and sisters Riccardo, Antonietta and Sabrina, who inherited the winery from their father Lorenzo.

"We are so proud of these results, which repay the strength of our family and the teachings that our father Lorenzo, passed on our brother Riccardo. Furthermore, these goals encourage us to continue our research activity, which we started years ago, both for the "zonation", and for the vineyards' scents characterization; to produce quality wines, with a great personality, it's necessary to know the territory" comments Maria Sabrina Tedeschi.

"We work hard to make the winery more sustainable – says Riccardo Tedeschi- with respect for the environment, we try to reduce water consumption, to make a shrewd and informed use of organic treatments to the vine, supporting the environmental biodiversity and, also in drying, to make investments that reduce the energetic consumption, slow down the kinetics of process and allow the control of the same shielding, according to nature's time".
